CHICAGO MEDICAL COLLEGE.

The Seventeenth Annual Course of Instruction in this Department will commence on the first Monday in October, 1875, and continue until the third Tuesday in March, 1876.

CURRICULUM OF STUDY.

One of the great reforms in which this College has been the pioneer, is the division of the students into classes,—each of which receives its own proper course of Lectures,—as in literary and scientific institutions.

For this purpose, the several branches embraced in the Curriculum are divided into three series or groups, corresponding with the three years of professional study; and are taught in three consecutive annual Courses of Lectures. But students who have already completed one or more years of professional study, and in consequence, desire to be admitted to either the Middle or Senior class, can do so by sustaining a satisfactory examination in all the branches belonging to the class or classes preceding the one they wish to enter. To accommodate such applicants, special examinations will be held during the third weeks in October and December. The arrangement of the Curriculum is as follows:

FIRST COURSE (JUNIOR).

Descriptive Anatomy; Physiology and Histology; Inorganic Chemistry; Materia Medica; Dissections; Practical Training in the Use of the Microscope.

SECOND COURSE (MIDDLE).

General Pathology and Pathological Anatomy; Organic Chemistry and Toxicology, Practical Training in Analysis of Urine; Orthopedic Surgery and Diseases of the Joints; Surgical Anatomy and Operations of Surgery; General Therapeutics; Psychological Medicine; Medical Jurisprudence and Hygiene; Hospital Attendance.

THIRD COURSE (SENIOR).

Principles and Practice of Medicine; Principles and Practice of Surgery and Military Surgery; Obstetrics and Diseases of Women and Children; Diseases of the Eye and Ear; Hospital Attendance; Practical Training in Auscultation and Percussion; in the Use of the Ophthalmoscope, Laryngoscope, Rhinoscope, and Endoscope; and in the Application of Fracture Apparatus and Bandages.

DIRECTIONS.

Students are required to devote their attention, in the First Session, especially to the branches constituting the Junior Course, and are examined on such branches at the end of the term. In the Second Session they are required, in a like manner, to devote special attention to the branches constituting the Middle Course, and to undergo an examination on them at the end of the term. In the Third Session they will be required to attend strictly to the branches constituting the Senior Course, with daily clinical observations in the hospital.

By this arrangement the student is provided with a system of College instruction strictly adapted to each year of his progress. He enters upon and masters each series in its natural order, and the mastery of each prepares him to more easily and fully master the next; while his mind is at no one time burdened and confused with a vain attempt to ramble over all the branches of Medical Science in sixteen or eighteen weeks, as is the case in nearly all American medical colleges. Yet in his consecutive courses, as here taught, he receives a more complete presentation of each branch in its proper place, and also the benefit of the most profitable repetitions. For instance, in the course on Surgical Anatomy and operations of Surgery, in the Second Course, he sees repeated and practically applied, the Descriptive Anatomy of the First. The same relation holds between the Elementary Chemistry of the First and the Organic Chemistry of the Second; between the Physiology of the First and General Pathology of the Second; between the General Pathology of the Second and the Practical Medicine of the Third, etc.

CLINICAL ADVANTAGES.

One of the marked features of the Curriculum of Study is the complete combination of theoretical and practical teaching; observa-

CONDITIONS OF GRADUATION.

The candidates must have the following qualifications :

1. Good moral character.
2. Three years' study.
3. Age twenty-one years, or over.
4. Dissection, Hospital Attendance, and two or more Courses of Lectures, of which the last must be in this College.
5. Must pass the regular examinations.
6. Must deposit with the Secretary, by February 1st, a thesis on some professional topic, and certificates showing the points 1, 2 and 3 above mentioned, and with the Registrar a graduation fee of twenty dollars. Students from other colleges must also deposit certificates as to the qualification No. 4.

SUMMER SESSION.

Attendance on this term is not compulsory, neither does it count in lieu of a Winter Course as a condition of graduation ; but it is advised that all who can should attend it. It commences on the first Monday in April and closes on the last Friday in June. There will be three Didactic Lectures Daily, and the Clinics, both in the Hospitals, College and South Side Dispensary will be continued as during the Winter Session. The Chemical Laboratory will be open for full instruction in Practical and Analytical Chemistry, and the Physiological Laboratory for the practical study of the tissues including the preparation and mounting of objects for the Microscope. The Dissecting Room will also be open for instruction in Practical Anatomy while the weather will permit. The attendance on the College Summer Lectures is free to all who have taken the matriculation ticket. In the Hospitals and for Dissection, tickets are required, which, however, are good for an entire year.

FEES.

Lecture Fees for the Winter Session	$50.00
Graduation Fee	20.00
Matriculation Fee	5.00
Dissecting Ticket	5.00
Hospital Ticket	6.00

All fees must be paid in advance to the Registrar, Prof. Nelson.

Students who have paid for two Courses of Lectures, receive subsequent courses free.

BOARD.

The price of Board cannot be accurately stated, owing to the change in price of all articles; it will probably average $5.00 a week for board and lodging. Vacant rooms for those who wish to lodge and board themselves, can be had at prices varying from $6.00 to $10.00 a month.

TEXT-BOOKS.

As inquiries are frequently made by students in reference to Text-Books, we will mention the following as among the best now in use, viz:

Anatomy.—Gray, Leidy, Ellis, Holden's Dissector, Heath's Practical Anatomy.

Physiology.—Dalton, Marshall, Carpenter, Flint.

Histology.—Frey, Stricker.

Microscopy.—Beale, Carpenter.

Materia Medica.—Stillé, Wood, Pareira.

Pathology.—Gross, Simon, Paget, Virchow.

Chemistry.—Roscoe, Miller, Fowne.

Toxicology.—Taylor, Wormley.

Surgery.—Erichsen, Hamilton.

Obstetrics.—Byford, Bedford, Cazeaux, Hodge.

Diseases of Women.—Byford, Thomas, Hewitt.

Practice of Medicine.—Flint, Aitken, Wood.

Diseases of the Eye.—Williams, Wells.

Diseases of the Ear.—Troltsch, Toynbee, Politzer.

Nervous Diseases.—Jones, Hammond, Reynolds.

Any further information that may be desired can be promptly obtained by addressing the Secretary, tions in the hospital at the bedside of the sick, and at the table of the Surgeon, illustrating the principles enunciated in the Lecture-room.

Mercy Hospital, situated on the same block with the College building, is an elegant structure, well arranged for its purposes, and capable of accommodating five hundred patients. It is under the professional care of the College Faculty. Each member of the Senior Class who takes the Mercy Hospital ticket, will have an opportunity to familiarize himself with the details of Surgery, by serving an allotted time as dresser in the hospital, under the direction of the House Surgeon, for which he will receive a certificate at the end of the session. Obstetrical cases are also awarded to candidates for graduation.

The South Side Dispensary is in the same building with the Mercy Hospital, and is an admirable complement of the hospital in clinical instruction, furnishing a large number of patients of the class denominated in private practice "office patients."

The College Clinics in Medicine, Surgery and Gynecology are regularly established, and with those of the Dispensary are divided into the following departments:

1. Medical;
2. Surgical;
3. Diseases of the Chest;
4. Gynecological;
5. Ophthalmic;
6. Skin Diseases.

During the past year nearly ten thousand patients have been treated in these several departments. In each of these departments Special Clinics are given daily to divisions of the class. These divisions, each consisting of six or eight students, are present constantly at all the operations and examinations, and witness all the treatment in each department.

In this way, all have rare opportunities of learning the practical use of the Laryngoscope, Ophthalmoscope, Speculum, and in a word, all the instruments used in the several departments of the Dispensary, and College Clinics.

One or more of the advanced students are also regularly employed in each department as assistants.

These Special Clinics do not interfere with the regular Hospital Clinics, but correspond more nearly with the "Private Courses" of Eastern cities and Europe.

The Mercy Hospital Ticket admits also to the Dispensary and College Clinics.

The Cook County Hospital, the St. Luke's Hospital, and the United States Marine Hospital are also readily accessible to the class for important Clinical instruction.

BUILDING.

The College Building is one of the finest in the United States. It is elegant and comfortable in its interior arrangements, and furnished with all the appliances and means of illustration that can be of use to the student. In addition to the ordinary provisions for the study of Chemistry, there is a large and well furnished Analytical Laboratory, under the charge of the Professor of Organic Chemistry, accessible to such students as desire to familiarize themselves with the practice of chemical art. Practical instruction in the Laboratory is given as a part of the course in Chemistry, thus combining practical and didactic teaching. There is also a Laboratory for experimental Physiology and Microscopy. The Museum, which is continually being enlarged, contains abundant materials for illustrating every department, and has recently added to its former attractions a splendid collection in Comparative Anatomy. The Dissecting room is one of the finest in the world, and is fitted up with all the best appliances.
